Room 3 Of The Crossfield School Take An Educational

On Wednesday, May 29, the teacher and thirty-five students of Room 3. Grades VII, VIII and IX, set out for a trip to Calgary at 9

The purpose of the trip was t see how the Calgary Herald is printed and to increase our knowledge of radio by visiting CFAC studio. Both purposes were satisfactorily accomplished.

Two of the Herald staff conducted us through the building and we saw how every operation was done right from the linotype room to the "bomb proof" basement where the bojs who sell the newspapers re-ceive their bundles of "Heralds".

We were informed that the Herald printing press is one of the m and printing press is one of the most up-to-date now supper presses in the world. What surprised us most was how the ne-se came in from the war zone, the records of "Calgary Heratde" from 1883, and the enormous rolls of paper which are used daily in printing the paper. If those was the paper which the text was the paper when the paper when the paper when the paper when the paper. rolls were stretched out, that is th six rolls used for the regular daily editions, they would cover 30 miles in length.

Every day "Heralds" travel all over the American continent. We saw slips with the names of people who receive the Herald away down in Texas We just thought it must be a very good newspaper when people so far away are interested in

Our next trip was to Radio Sta tion CFAC in the Southam Building We were taken into Studio A and there we saw the different

The season for summerfallow-ing is here. Because the most important factor which limits the mportant factor which limits the yield of all crops is moisture, summerfallowing is usually per-formed in order to conserve extra moisture in the soil for next year's

Now the records show that the Now the records show that the best rains fall during the month of June, and often early in June. It is important, therefore, that summerfallowings should be done as early as possible in June, for the simple reason that much of the it is summerfallowed is lost by evaporation into the hot air when the soil is turned up during the op eration of plowing or cultivating.

Keeping in mind the importance of conserving moisture in the soil, it is obvious that the less summer fallow is disturbed after the first ploughing or cultivating, the more moisture is likely to be conserved and so the higher the crop yield will be the next year,

Naturally, of course, sufficient cultivation must be done during the season to keep down any heavy growth of weeds, for tall weeds will certainly steal a great deal if not all the moisture that the summer-fallow has conserved

SOME FISH STORY

Four youthful disciples of Isaac Walton, in an old model T, started off Saturday afternoon to "go fishin'" some 30 miles west of town.

They were in high spirits until a tire went flat. and owing to lack of tools, it took them over two hours to change it. Then they started out again, finally reaching the fishin' hole, where their luck changed long enough to allow one of the party to catch a fish. But soon it got dark and began to rain, so they turned on the gas, cranked her, and started for home. But alas! It seems the roads get really muddy out in the bush, and to add to their difficulties, a tire blew out and there were no repairs on hand. Walking four miles in the rain to a telephone, they phoned their parents late Saturday night not to worry, as a good Samaritan had kindly offered to put them up for the night, Sunday morning they went to work on the tire with ad-hesive tape and managed the 30 nile trip back to town in six hours through mud and rain and up those through mud and rain and up those blinkety blank hills.

The boys didn't have anything but four chocolate bars and a few oranges from Saturday noon until late Sunday morning, when they called at a farm and enjoyed a batch of paneakes.

After a few square meals and a good sleep, they are ready to go again — or are they?
